loyalty and war plank endorsement of woman suffrage, a declaration that the question of prohibition must be settled by the legislature alone and must be left to individual legislative candidates, a promise of marketing reforms and a declaration in favor of the taxation of profiteers, cover the main planks in the republican state platform adopted here early today. The convention endorsed the war administration of Governor Philipp and declared in favor of the speaking of English language in the grades. No foreign language shall be taught in high school, but this is not to interfere with religious instructions.

George A. West of Milwaukee, was unanimously elected state chairman.

Madison, Sept. 18.—The republican convention organized by electing Lieutenant Governor E. J. Dithmar, Baraboo, as temporary chairman. This was the first test of strength and showed that the Phillip-Dithmar forces, backing a Wisconsin candidate, were supreme. The victor, soundly defeated by J. H. Bennett, Virroqua. On the final vote Bennett received twenty-eight votes and Dittmar forty-eight.

Great Problems.

"The great problem before the country is the winning of the war," declared Lieutenant Governor Dittmar in accepting the position. "This war must be won at all costs. In this war the people of Wisconsin are heart and soul with the administration in forwarding the cause of the allies."

JANESVILLE SOLDIERS HONORED BY GENERAL

Small Division Composed of Many Janesville Boys Given High
Tribute By British Officer.

Admiration of the soldierly qualities of the 33rd division composed of several Janesville boys and Illinois National Guard is expressed in letters written by commanding generals of the Fourth British army. The letters published in general editors have been received in this country.

The letters were directed to Major General George Bell Jr., commander of the division by General Rawlinson of the Fourth British army and General Alex. Godley commanding the Third Corps.

Several Janesville boys including Ben Eller, William Joyce, Edward Schenck, Dan McGrane, John Daly, Leon Schuetzler, Cyrus Montgomery and many others who were former members of the 331st Machine Gun Battalion, are now members of the 33rd (Prairie) Division.

The letter written by General Rawlinson follows:

"33rd Illinois Division:
"On the departure of the 33rd division from the Fourth army I desire officially to record my admiration of the energy, keenness and soldierly qualities exhibited by all ranks during their period of training under my orders. The marked advance which has been made and the satisfactory standard of fighting efficiency that has been reached reflect high credit on all concerned and guarantee that the division will render brilliant service to the allied cause wherever it may be employed as a fighting division in face of the enemy."

"My regret is that it will not have further opportunity for offensive action while in the Fourth British army, but portions of the division already have been sent to the front gallantly, and I desire to tender my warm thanks to those units engaged for their brilliant successes in the Hangel offensive and at Gressaire wood. I greatly regret the departure of the division and wish for General Bell and all ranks under him the best of good fortune in the strenuous times which lie before them."

H. RAWLINSON.

Water Rates Changed.

Wausau.—Metered water rates for Wausau have been automatically changed by a decision of the water commission of Wisconsin. This commission has devised a new schedule of rates to take place of the present rates which have been condemned by the commission as retrogressive and unfair.

As the water commission decided to abide by the decision of the state commission, the new schedule will be immediately adopted.

The old rates adopted on April 3, 1917, provide a marked cheaper rate for increased consumption. The new schedule avoids this injustice.

THE MEANEST KIND.

Last spring the cry went forth for the war gardens. The response was unanimous in all parts of the country. Janesville created its war gardens and the results were surprising. Now comes tales of the individuals who sneak around at night with hags on their shoulders and loot these gardens, dig up the hills of potatoes so carefully cultivated during the hot summer, pluck the tomatoes and late vegetables, trample plants they do not want and escape undetected. Nor is this looting confined to the city alone, for tales come from the country, of parties who steal up on distant plots of ground, steal corn, fruit and other farm products and easily avoid detection. These are the meanest kind of thieves imaginable. No wonder the war gardeners become discouraged when they find their bean plot trampled and looted, when their late vegetables are rooted up and their pumpkins taken half a dozen by these cowards who had no garden of their own, too mean to fight, too cowardly to work, yet living off the toil of others.

Chardon thieving is about the meanest kind of robbery. After people have put in good hard work and perspiration in hot weather to see the crop of their product carried off by sneaks who won't take the trouble to feed themselves—well, it is not surprising that the demand for shot-guns is reported good. That is the really only adequate defense.

There are plenty of wakeful folks who occasionally take a look out of the window at night. Some of them are possessed with shot-guns. It is much more fun to shoot marauders than sleepers.

Police officers should remember that vegetable gardens about now are a valuable form of property and should be protected. When offenders are caught, they should be given the limit of the law.

Garden robbery is the result of the very few feeling that many people have had about stealing fruit. It was formerly considered that boys could not be blamed for robbing the trees of the neighborhood. Many people, when complaints were made, would laugh and say, "Boys will be boys," and would not do a thing to stop it. Now we have brought up a lot of people who regard petty thievery as only a joke, but these are times of high prices, when the government asks us to raise food to win the war with. The man who has worked hard over his patch sees no humor in this thievery, and he will not trifle with these pilferers.

NEWSPAPER SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Government is now trying to save paper by requiring publishers to discontinue the mailing of newspapers to subscribers who do not pay up. It was amusing a few years ago to see how people fussed when the government began to deny the usual pound rates on papers that were not paid for. Many newspapers kept standing a notice that the postoffice made this ruling. They also notified subscribers by mail.

But many subscribers would not believe it. They thought it was all a scheme of the publishers to get money in faster. This rule was probably enforced more strictly in some localities than others, which led to confusion. There were many publishers that would carry an unpaid paper along five or ten years, and even the publisher would not care to discontinue the paper to keep subscriptions paid up.

Newspaper publishers dislike to keep punching up their subscribers. But other agencies that depend upon collecting a lot of small bills, like electric light and telephone and water companies, find it absolutely necessary to have these payments made regularly. If you don't pay every thirty days, many of these companies will discontinue their service and put you to great inconvenience.

Newspaper publishers will always be too lenient. It would be a good thing if they would get together and carry out a uniform policy of discontinuance of unpaid subscriptions.

The newspaper is one of the most important agencies working for civic effort. It carries a heavy load of effort, and it ought not to be bothered with the cost and annoyance of collecting a lot of neglected bills. So if people could regard the bill that comes only once a year for the annual subscription, as something having real importance which should be attended to as you would a telephone bill, it would promote the usefulness of the newspaper, and help it serve the public better.

ANSWERING THE DRAFT QUESTIONS.

Another great body of men will now be faced with the formidable draft questionnaire, and must tell the government all about their experience, responsibilities, and qualifications.

To the first body of conscripted men, the war was a wholly new thing. It was natural for a great many men to look at the call to service as a very heavy burden. There was a temptation to claim exemption on insufficient grounds. Many men did not then understand the reason for the war. It would have been strange if everyone was wholly sincere in the answers he gave on his questionnaire.

The attitude of the men toward the draft has changed in the months that have passed. We see the soldiers honored. Nothing is too good for them. They are receiving a very valuable training. It is going to promote their success after they return. We are finding out that army service has some very positive advantages.

A great many young men are saying to themselves, I don't believe I want to be out of this. They don't like to have to say all their lives, I was of draft age but I was exempted. They feel more and more reluctant to claim any exemption except for excellent reasons. Of course there is still an element of yellow slackers who will try to dodge from mere cowardice. But this is a comparatively small element.

The new draft questionnaires then should, and one has faith to think they will be, a pretty sincere statement of the real facts in a man's life. He should expose his situation to the government just as it is, his gifts, experience, and responsibilities. Then he should be willing to leave it wholly to the draft boards to say where he can do the most good whether in his old job or on some special war task, or in the trenches. He will be happier all his life if he takes this attitude.

Someone asks what has become of the men this year that used to hang around the bulletin boards and telegraph offices to get the news of the world series ball games? Well, several of them were hanging around the draft boards to see what they had the chance to go to camp first.

Some people can't save any of the gasoline they use in pleasure driving now, as it is only needed to carry food to the men in the trenches and take the desperately wounded men to the hospitals.

That loud tumult you heard among the non-English speaking citizens on the way to register, was not a plot against the United States, but merely a discussion on which is the best fighter.

Some of the young employees of the groceries can't go to war, as they are kept busy delivering yeast cakes to people who forgot to buy them when they were down town.

These Huns that said America would never fight seem to feel it necessary to move back whenever the Americans show their heads outside their trenches.

The people who have been waiting so anxiously for the open season for game to come, are reminded that it is open season on Huns all the year in France now.

The fellows who were so busy September 12 that they forgot to register, will have ample time to remember their engagements when they get into jail.

But some of the patriotic gas savers who stay at home Sunday have a way of slipping out with their cars on several extra evenings a week.

One thing is fairly sure, that there will be no pensions for the people who get sore throat telling how the war ought to be run.

With 4,000,000 young men drafted, it is being discovered that an aged man of fifty has a few kicks left in him yet.

In some of the German localities in this country the schools have got so far that they permit the English language.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOUTON

FROM A BOOB'S NOTEBOOK.

I was passing the city hall when I met a suspicious looking stranger. He looked all wrong to me. His breast was covered with flags of the allies and he wore a built down Liberty loan buttons. I knew him for a spy and was on my guard at once. He pointed to the city hall and asked: "Sir, is that the city hall?" I eyed him coldly and replied, "I do not know," and passed on.

SHOCK.

(Acknowledgments to Ben King.)
If I should die tonight
And you should come unto my bier
And say:
Weeping and heart sick, o'er my life
I was a spy.
If I should die tonight
And you should come in deepest grief and fright
And say, "The Crown Prince has been a traitor."
I would rise in my large white cravat
And say, "What's that?"

If I should die tonight
And you should come unto my bier
and kneel
And utter with the great surprise you feel:
If I should die tonight
And you should come and say that I was a traitor.
That furniture and statue-stealing prince
And once exposed his carcass to a pain
By showing his blonde nut above the plains.
I might arise the while,
But I'd drop dead again.

Mr. De Wolf Hopper has given up his cane for the duration of the war.

The crown prince is growing mild in his war aims. He now says all he wants is what is coming to him. The indications are he will get just that.

THANKS FOR THE COMPLIMENT.

There is just one thing that will bring back the joy of youth to an old man of forty and place him at peace with all the world—except Germany. That is to be held up by a policeman and asked to show his registration card.

WHO'S WHO in the Daily News

MAJOR BENEDICT C. CROWELL.

Maj. Benedict C. Crowell of Cleveland, Ohio, who was an assistant secretary of the United States War Department, has been appointed director of munitions, and this is a position of great importance. He is a one-man power scheme. It divides the munitions from the air service, and puts the former under Crowell's direct control.

Before becoming assistant secretary of war, Crowell was associated with the general munitions board of the council of national defense since its organization. More recently, however, he has been in charge of the Washington office of the Panama canal. Mr. Crowell's coming into the war department attracted very little attention in Washington, but he was the "efficient somebody" for whom so many had been clamoring, and he has delivered the goods. In his home city of Cleveland he had been known as a chemist, a chemist and a metal-burglar.

His business as a contractor and builder on a big scale had made him a prominent figure in Ohio. Efficiency is his middle name, and Secretary Baker knew what he was doing when he chose him from the field of big business and made him a chemist to formulate a plan for the reorganization of the business end of the country's war making.

His designation as director of munitions will really make but slight change in the work in which he has already been engaged.

BALLADE OF AN AMERICAN LAD.
This is our pride and our boast:
Though to his death he may go,
Ever he'll stand at his post.
Never he'll turn from the foe.
Offering blow for blow,
Tage front to battle he'll stand,
But never a baby shall know
One scar as the mark of his hand.

Prussians may charge in a host,
Frightful as demons below,
Leaving on women engrossed
Their shame like the stain on the snow.
Daily more avenging they grow
To maintain at their leader's command,
But never a mother shall show
One scar as the mark of his hand.

Never a blood-dripping ghost
Shall stalk from some Flanders chateau
And come from that war ridden coast,
Till the cock in the barn yard shall glow.

To haunt him with terrors, Oh No!
If he live to come back to our land,
One the helpless there never shall
glow
One scar as the mark of his hand.

God of men! We are proud it is so,
That never his need shall demand
That women and children must know
One scar at the mark of his hand.

LOCAL PEOPLE MAY INSPECT WAR TROPHIES AT C. & N. W. DEPOT FOR TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES

FROM 9:35 TO 10:00

Exhibit Will Be Under Guard Of Twenty-Four Soldiers And Sailors—Part Of Trophies Shown At Exposition.

War trophies, which during the last two weeks thrilled almost two million persons at the government exposition in Chicago, may be seen by local people for twenty-five minutes tomorrow morning at the Chicago & Northwestern depot, from 9:35 to 10:00 a. m. The trophies, which will be loaded on flat cars and box cars, will be guarded during their stay in this city by twelve Camp Grant soldiers and twelve sailors from Great Lakes.

This war exhibit train has been assembled under the direction of the Liberty Loan committee for a tour of exhibit in the several federal reserve districts of which Rock County is a part.

Similar shows are being given in each of the twelve reserve districts in the country.

The exhibit tomorrow morning is free to the public and the local people should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity of seeing some of the trophies which were shown at the mammoth exposition in Grant Park, Chicago.

The exhibit is composed of the most interesting of the 5,900 trophies of the allied nations shown in Chicago. Anti-aircraft guns with which German bombers brought down Hindenburg, French 75's, 10-inch shell, 14-inch siege guns, poisoned parbed wire entanglements from battlefields in France, wrecked German airplanes and trench mortars, howitzers, grenades, torpedoes, helmets and breastplates taken in battle, feature the show. Many of the bombs with which Australian bombers attacked Venice are also displayed.

At the end of the tour the exhibit trains will be sent to Cleveland, Ohio, where, beginning October 1st, there will be another exposition. The federal government plans, it was said, similar shows in Cincinnati and Columbus, O., Detroit, Boston, New York, Baltimore, Birmingham, Atlanta, New Orleans and Houston, continuing until late next spring.

The war exhibit train will be in Clinton Junction tomorrow morning from seven o'clock until nine o'clock.

POSED AS SECRET SERVICE MAN; TAKEN BY LOCAL POLICE

ARTHUR JAMES PRATT MAN ABOUT TOWN ARRESTED FOR IMPERSONATING FEDERAL OFFICER

WILL GO TO MADISON

Pratt Will Be Held at Local Station Pending Arrival of United States Officer From Madison

Arthur James Pratt Janesville's Beau Brummel and self appointed secret service man was taken into custody by Chief of Police, Peter Champion yesterday.

It is alleged that Pratt, who has caused many a fuss over him in his natty English cut clothes, has been representing himself to different people in the city as a secret service man. It is also alleged that he has been obtaining money from several women of Janesville.

Pratt when arrested was a very nonchalant smile and appeared to be very jolly but was put out that he well dressed as he would be looked up in order to help matters along. Pratt was arraigned in the municipal court this morning on a charge of vagrancy. At this time he was being held in the city jail on the plea of "not guilty." However he will not have to stand trial for vagrancy as he will be taken to Madison as soon as a U. S. officer arrives in the city.

Pratt claimed that he was a married man and that his wife lived on a farm about eight miles east of Janesville. He made no excuse for not working and refused to talk when questioned.

He arrived in Janesville a short time ago and made one of the local hotels his headquarters. He was well supplied with clothes and his natty appearance caused many a local girl to let her eyes follow him after he passed.

When taken into custody Pratt assumed the air of one who was bored by such a trivial matter as police court. He seemed to be very much at ease in the court room despite the fact that he appeared to think himself much better than the drunks who were being tried in the court room.

For several weeks Pratt has lived at a local hotel, dressing like a millionaire and claiming absolutely no work. He always had plenty of money and a short time ago complaints were received about a man representing himself as a secret service man.

Chief Champion started an investigation and soon reached the conclusion that Pratt deserved watching. For several days the chief has closely watched Pratt and would have been convinced that he had the right man he arrested him this morning.

It is alleged that besides impersonating a federal officer he has supplied himself with money taken from the women of Janesville. He has posed before them as a secret service man and in this manner obtained enough money to support himself and also to buy his English cut clothes.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, was the out of town guest.

Mrs. F. A. Blackman of 712 Court street, will entertain Division No. 8, of the Congregational church, on Thursday afternoon.

The Presbyterian Women's social meeting will be held on Friday afternoon at half past two, at the church. A musical program will be given, and light refreshments will be served. Preparations for the active work of the church for the winter will be made. The officers of the society are, President, Mrs. Archie Hallett; Secretary, Mrs. E. Peterson; Treasurer, Mrs. C. ROBBED OF MONEY; FINED BY COURT

Tony Refenburg of Kalamazoo Tells Judge Maxwell That He Was Touched for Sixty Dollars While Drunk in Janesville.

Tony Refenburg of Kalamazoo, Mich., started the court this morning when answering a charge of drunkenness when he told the judge that he had been robbed of between sixty and seventy dollars and a gold watch. Tony was arrested last evening while drunk and when arraigned before the judge this morning he told his story. Firstly he stoutly denied that he came from Beloit. He stated that he had been working in Kalamazoo for the past year and that he just came over here on Saturday to see his son. How his story didn't hold good and he was given a fine of fifteen dollars and costs or twenty days.

William Mills, a local man appeared on the same charge of drunkenness. He was given a fine of fifteen dollars and costs and twenty days. James Sullivan was very truthful about the matter and readily admitted to the judge that he was drunk but he couldn't explain to the judge where he stood in the draft. A question about the draft brought the reply from Adolph Bell. He was given $25 and costs or a vacation for thirty days.

After Adolph came Adam Appel of Rockford. Adam was evidently ignorant of the law given to men from dry towns because he asserted in a bold manner that he was from Rockford. He was given ten days flat and a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs or thirty additional days. Tom Kelley of Beloit was fined twenty three dollars and costs on his plea of guilty to the charge of drunkenness. He was credited by Judge Maxwell with two dollars for buying Liberty bonds.

Garret Griffith was the last one of the morning and on his plea of guilty of getting drunk he was assessed twenty-five dollars and costs or thirty days.

Adopt Resolution Milwaukee—The Milwaukee Typographical union has adopted resolutions repudiating Frank J. Weber of the Federated Trades council that "labor here wants peace" and deploring the refusal of Weber to give first place in the Labor day parade to a detachment of United States Marines carrying the American and allied flags under guard.

The resolutions were adopted Sunday at a meeting where patriotism and indignation ran high. The union bitterly resents what it looks upon as a slur placed upon the attitude of labor by Weber's declaration that labor in Milwaukee wanted peace, and was stung by the indignity put upon the marines.

Frank J. Weber, business agent of the Federated Trades council, says: "Politics is at the bottom of all this. There is something even deeper than politics."

SAUK COUNTY WOMAN SUES FRANK D. HAYES FOR HEAVY DAMAGES

Mrs. Theresa Collier Starts Action to Recover $10,000 For Injuries Sustained in Auto Collision.

In a suit to recover damages to the amount of $10,000 from Frank D. Hayes of this city for personal injuries sustained in an auto collision near the Kellogg farm a month ago today, Mrs. Theresa Collier of Sauk county, through her attorneys yesterday filed a complaint and summons against the defendant with Circuit Court Clerk Jesse Earle. Mrs. Collier complains that the collision was due to negligence and careless driving of Mr. Hayes and family, were returning from Camp Grant, along the Beloit-Janesville road and were driving at a moderate rate of speed well over to the right hand side of the twenty-foot road when it is alleged, the car which was driven south by Frank Hayes suddenly swerved out directly in front of them to pass a roadster which was also being driven south. The car was driving at a speed in excess of twenty-five miles an hour, it is alleged, while passing the roadster and consequently when the Hayes car had crashed into the Collier car in a head-on collision.

Mrs. Collier alleges that she was thrown to the ground, her right arm and leg in two places and splitting one of the bones. She was removed to Mercy hospital, where the bones were twisted together and the investigation showed that she had also sustained a wrenched shoulder and a bruised back.

That had the defendant exercised ordinary diligence the collision would not have occurred, is the complaint made by Mrs. Collier. The complaint further alleges that the emergency brake on the Hayes car had been of repair for at least a month preceding the time of the accident and that if it had been working properly and if Mr. Hayes had used it instead of using only his foot-brake, the collision could have been avoided.

Mrs. Collier demands judgment to the amount of $10,000, together with the costs and disbursements of the action. The attorneys who are representing the plaintiff are Grotzinger, Thomas, Bleser and Quale, of Barraboo.

DEMOCRATS INSERT PROHIBITION PLANK IN THEIR PLATFORM

WISCONSIN DEMOCRATS ADOPT RESOLUTION TO LINE UP ON SIDE OF WOMEN SUFFRAGE AND NATIONAL PROHIBITION

LA BUDDE CHAIRMAN

C. A. La Budde of Elkhardt Lake, Wisconsin, State Chairman of Party, H. A. Moellenpach, President, Platform

(Special to the Gazette.) Madison, Wis., Sept. 18.—The democratic party lined up on the side of woman's suffrage, adopted a declaration that it stands with the prohibition on the subject of prohibition; condemned the administration of Gov. Philipp and adopted a ringing loyalty and war plank in its platform. It sent a telegram of congratulation to General Pershing in France.

Only on the subject of prohibition was there any storm. The first plank presented to the convention declared not to be the plank of the committee and a new plank was substituted. After the platform had been adopted, the prohibition plank was incorporated into the platform, and a plank in favor of rural credits and marketing.

O. A. La Budde, Elkhardt Lake, was unanimously re-elected state chairman. Joseph Gidycz, Schlesinger, was unanimously re-elected secretary. While the platform committee was out drafting the platform, the convention was addressed by H. A. Moellenpach, internal revenue collector for the western district of Wisconsin; Congressman Guy T. Hoeverling, Kansas and W. T. Walker, Milwaukee; and W. S. Goodland, Racine, was called upon. He said he did not belong to the democratic party, but to the party which stood for the men in all parties who did not stand back of the government in this war.

The democratic platform was presented to the convention by the party for governor, H. A. Moellenpach, Clinton. He said afterwards that the platform met his wishes.

The platform is as follows: "We are intensely proud of a war which must be decisively won, and won on America's righteous terms. At this moment with the victorious battle of America's soldiers, the world is against the world's latest entrenchments of depositions and nullification, stimulating with pride and patriotism every true American heart more than ever before. We recognize every form of power, sentiment and purpose of individual, community and state must be given unqualifiedly and unreservedly, to our country.

"We are intensely proud of the influence, strength and purpose of the democracy of Wisconsin to our commander in chief, Woodrow Wilson, whose acts, policies, and ideals make him the acknowledged champion of the rights of world-wide humanity.

"We favor every plan, every movement under his leadership, that will strengthen the nation, enlarge its resources, and uplift its morale and spirit.

"We are intensely proud of the marvelous accomplishments of the administration of Woodrow Wilson, and not only recognize that in this fight America is leading the most just and human struggle for the preservation of human rights, but also that under the president's leadership he has translated this spirit for open interpretation, thus uplifting and strengthening the cause and the spirit of labor, raising wages, establishing the rights of unionism in collective bargaining, reducing the hours of labor and bringing labor in full accord with the nation and the purposes of the nation, establishing new prestige and dignity to the ruler of the soil, and teaching the spirit of service to American business.

"We give recognition to the wisdom and foresight of the women of America and approve President Wilson's recommendation for women's suffrage by federal amendment through ratification by states, and to the nation, to teach, veneration, for the history and institutions of our country and to aid in building real Americans that they be taught only the English language in America we owe it as a solemn obligation to the youth of all schools, public and private during their plastic age of instruction up to and including the eight grade or its equivalent thereto.

"We are in accord with the national administration on the liquor question. Prepare State for Peace.

"We will prepare our state for the great period of reconstruction after the war by planning for better schools, improved schools, and a constructive policy that will provide opportunities for the rural untended returning soldiers, sailor or mariner, to favor the enactment of a law by the state of Wisconsin to aid in the development and settlement of lands suitable for farming, grazing and agriculture purposes, so that actual settlers by the state, by loaning money for the development of those lands.

"We most heartily approve the plan of the department of the interior of the United States to provide farms for returning soldiers.

"We approve what the national democratic administration has done for the development and betterment of the farmer and farm, and commend the laws enacted by it for that purpose, which includes agricultural extension work, aid to agricultural colleges, payment of salaries of agricultural agents, and the organization of rural agents, credit law, cotton in connection with the department of agriculture for the purpose of studying the question of marketing and to develop marketing and to develop the consumer may be eliminated and the passage of the United States warehouse act, and pledge the democratic party to secure for the state of Wisconsin a law similar to the United States warehouse act, which would apply to our state and that laws looking toward the securing of better market conditions for farmers be enacted.

Approve Tax Laws. We approve of the national income and inheritance tax laws passed by the democratic congress, and also the present revenue bill greatly increasing the rates on excess profits, war profits, and large incomes, now before the congress of the United States.

"We view with indignation and resentment a policy of truckling conciliation to the subtle enemies of our state and nation. We recognize that these forces are to day in Wisconsin behind the candidacy of Emanuel L. Philipp for governor. Philipp has entered to this contest for the governorship in Wisconsin life because of his trucking speeches, and we condemn him for his attempts at the outbreak of the war to use his position as governor to influence legislation at Washington in opposition to President Wilson's determination to fit America to fight.

"We condemn Emanuel L. Philipp because he wanted an embargo on shipments, a schema devised to strengthen German militarism. We condemn Emanuel L. Philipp because he exposed the subject of service draft, which was planned to give real strength to America's fighting purposes.

Gov. Philipp Condemned. "We condemn Emanuel L. Philipp because he opposed sending American troops to France, which was the very spot and the only method for America to strike its enemies below. "What he has done has been the mandatory act of the nation has compelled him as governor to perform his duty and vision for Wisconsin, wholehearted sympathy and support for America's aims has been unqualifiedly lacking.

"It is our purpose to ask supporters to forget all parties, to appeal to the highest and best spirit of Americanism in our state that Gov. Philipp and those who sympathize with him may be defeated, that the impulses of Wisconsin's American heart can be felt in the state house at Madison and in congressional buildings at Washington.

"Erstwhile Susan" a play in three acts by Marian de Forest, founded on Helen P. As usual, Frank Winninger, Janesville's favorite comedian, was the hit of the evening, keeping the audience in continuous laughter from start to finish. The scenery was cleverly decorated by the decorator whom Mr. Winninger has with him. By repainting the scenery each night, it gives it a new appearance which is very hard to transport from town to town. The play to be presented tomorrow night is "Passers By."

Carolyn of the Corners

By
NATHANIEL H. HENDRICKS

"Is it? Well, no, they didn't tell me that," admitted the visitor, "or I'd not started so late. You see, I came up on a schooner. This here lake boatin' ain't in my line. I'm deep-water, I am."

"So I should 'pose," said Mr. Parlow, "I'd've you get up here, anyway?"

"The war," said the visitor. "The war done it. Couldn't get a good berth in any deep-water bottom. So I thought I'd try fresh-water sailin'. I tell you, matey, I been workin' as quartermaster's mate on the old Cross and Crescent line, a-scootin' 'cross to Naples from N' York—there and back—goin' on ten year."

"What did you leave your boat for?" asked the carpenter curiously.

"She was sunk. There's a tag happenin' over to the other side of the ocean, mate," said the injured man earnestly, "that you wouldn't believe—no, sir! The Cross and Crescent line's give up business till after the war's over, I reckon."

"You'd better not encourage him to talk any more, father," interposed Miss Amanda, coming into the room again. "The best thing he can do for himself is to sleep for a while."

"Thank you, ma'am," said the sailor humbly. "I'll try."

Darkness came on apace. The sky had become overcast, and there was promise of a stormy night—more snow, perhaps. But Miss Amanda would not allow Carolyn May and Prince to start for home at once.

"Watch for your uncle, Carolyn May, out of the front-room window, and he'll be ready to go with him when he comes along," said Miss Parlow.

When Uncle Joe came along, Carolyn May ran out and hailed him from the porch.

"Wait for me, Uncle Joe! Wait for me and Prince, please! Just let me get my mittens and Prince's harness and kiss Miss Mandy."

That last she did most soundly, and in full view of the man waiting in the white room.

"Oh, Uncle Joe, I've got just the wonderfullest story to tell you! Shall we harness Prince up again, or will you—"

"I can't wait for the dog, Carolyn May. I'm in a hurry. You oughtn't to be out in this wind, either. Get aboard your sled, now, and I'll drag you myself," Mr. Staggs interrupted.

CHAPTER X.

A Salt-Sea Flavor. Swiftly Joseph Staggs trudged toward home, dragging Carolyn May behind him.

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed the little girl with exultation, "we're all so excited, Uncle Joe!"

"I can see you're all of a-bitter," he returned absent-mindedly. "What's the matter?"

"Oh, you never could guess!" was Carolyn May's introduction, and forthwith, in breathless sentences, went on to tell of her discovery in the snow and about the old sailor now lying asleep on the Parlow couch.

Of course, when Carolyn May arrived at home, the story had to be told all over again to Aunt Rose Kennedy.

"A mighty plucky youngster, this Carolyn May of ours," Uncle Joe remarked. "What do you say, Aunt Rose?"

"She is, indeed, Joseph Staggs," agreed the woman.

Carolyn May insisted on going to the Parlow house herself after school the next afternoon to inquire about her

Why Run Down Pale Exhausted Women Should Take Iron

"There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked, steady nerves without iron. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks, their charm and attractiveness depart. I always insist that my patients take iron—Nuxated Iron—(not metallic iron which often corrodes the stomach and does more harm than good). Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken the teeth nor injure the teeth nor upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard women in two weeks' time in many cases. I use it in my own practice with most surprising results."—Ferdinand King, M.D., well-known New York Physician and medical author. "sailor man." When she had been kissed by Miss Amanda, and Prince had taken down by the kitchen range, the little girl demanded:

"And do tell me how my sailor man is, Mr. Staggs. He got such a bump on his head!"

"Yes, the man's wound is really serious. I'm keeping him in bed. But you can go up to see him. He's talked a lot about you, Carolyn May."

The sailor lay in the warm bedroom over the kitchen.

Carolyn May prattled on gayly and soon had her "sailor man" telling all about the sea and ships, and "they that go down therein."

"For, you see," explained Carolyn May, "I'm dreadful curious about the sea. My papa and mamma were lost at sea."

"You don't say so, little miss!" exclaimed the old fellow. "Aye, aye, that's too bad."

Miss Amanda had disappeared, busy about some household matter, and the little girl and the sailor were alone together.

"Yes," Carolyn May proceeded, "It is

"I guess I won't never forget that time, little miss," went on the seaman, seeing the blue eyes fixed on his face, round with interest. "No! And I've seen some tough times, too."

"The ship was riddled. She had to sink—and it was night."

"There was a sick man I told you about, little miss. He was a wonder, that fellow! Cheerful—brave—Don't often see a feller like him. Jokin' to the last, he was. He didn't want to go in the purser's boat, if there was more women or children to go."

"We told him all the women folk had left the ship. So, then, he let me lower him down into the purser's boat after his wife. And that boat had as good a chance as we had, I tell you," repeated the seaman in quite an excited manner.

"Oh, dear me!" exclaimed Carolyn May. "My papa and mamma might have been just like that," she added.

"Of course, we don't know whether they got off the steamship at all."

"Aye, aye!" the sailor said. "Pretty tough on you, little miss."

Miss Amanda had come back into the room, and she stood listening to the old man's talk. She said:

"Carolyn May, I think you had better go downstairs now. We mustn't let our patient talk too much. It won't be good for him."

So Carolyn May shook hands with the old sailor and started downstairs ahead of Miss Amanda. The latter lingered a moment to ask a question.

"What was the name of the steamship you were wrecked on?" she asked.

"The one you were just telling about."

"She was the Dunraven—the Dunraven, of the Cross and Crescent line," replied the mariner. "Didn't I tell you that before, ma'am?"

CHAPTER XI.

Will Wonders Never Cease? Again it snowed all night.

It was on the next day, and at noon time, when Mr. Staggs was returning to the store, that a most astounding thing happened.

Mr. Staggs was walking briskly toward Sunrise Cove in his big felt snow-boots, such as all men wore in that locality, and was abreast of the Parlow shop and cottage—which he always sought to avoid looking at—when he heard a door open and close.

He tried not to look that way. But his ear told him instantly that the person who had come out was Miss Amanda, rather than her father. Knowing this, how could he help darting a glance at her?

Miss Amanda stood on the porch, looking directly at him.

"Mr. Staggs," she called earnestly, "I must speak to you."

Save on the Sunday when Prince had killed the blacksnake, Miss Amanda had not spoken directly to the hardware merchant in all these hungry years. It rather shocked Joseph Staggs now that she should do so.

"Will you come in?" she urged him, her voice rather tremulous.

There was a moment of absolute silence.

"Bless me! Yes!" ejaculated the hardware man finally.

"I assure you, Mr. Staggs," Miss Amanda said hurriedly, "it is no personal matter that causes me to stop you in this fashion."

"No, ma'am?" responded the man stily.

"I want you to come in and speak with this sailor who was hurt," she finally said. "There is something he can tell you. Mr. Staggs, that I think you should know."

The big rocking-chair by the window, in which Miss Amanda's mother had spent her waking hours, was now occupied by the sailor.

"This is the little girl's uncle, Benjamin," Miss Amanda said quietly. "He will be interested in what you have already told me about the loss of the Dunraven. Will you please repeat it all?"

"The Dunraven?" gasped Mr. Staggs, sitting down without being asked. "Hannah—"

"There is no hope, of course," Amanda Parlow spoke up quickly, "that your sister, Mr. Staggs, and her husband were not lost. But having found out that Benjamin was on the steamer with them, I thought you should know. I have warned him to be careful how he speaks before Carolyn May. You may wish to hear the story at first hand."

"Thank you," choked Joseph Staggs. He wanted to say more, but could not. Benjamin Hardy's watery eyes blinked, and he blew his nose.

"Aye, aye, mate!" he rumbled, "hard lines—for a fact. I give my testimony 'fore the consul when we was landed—so did all that was left of us from the Dunraven. Me bein' an unlettered man, they didn't run me very close. I can't add much more to it."

"As I say, that purser's boat your sister and her sickly husband was in had just as good a chance as we had. We nigh bumped into each other soon after the Dunraven sunk. So, then, we pulled off aways from each other. Then the fog rolled up from the African shore—a heap of fog, mate. It sponged out the lamp in the purser's boat. We never seen no more of 'em—nor heard no more."

"And were Hannah—were my sister and her husband in that boat?" queried Mr. Staggs thoughtfully.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

—You remember in the last story that little Billy Bunny was a drummer boy in Uncle Lucky's Bunburyville regiment, and that the thoughtful old gentleman rabbit had just sent a wireless to Mrs. Bunny at Old Snake Fence Corner telling her that her little son was in Uncle Sam's army. Well, sir, and well, general, when

Ugly, Unsightly Pimples Are Signals of Bad Blood

Give Heed to the Warning. Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from Nature that your blood is sluggish and impoverished. Sometimes they form eczema, boils, blisters, scaly eruptions and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

They mean that your blood needs S. S. S. to purify it and cleanse it of these impure accumulations that can cause unlimited trouble. This remedy is the greatest vegetable blood purifier known, and contains no minerals or chemicals to injure the most delicate skin.

Go to your drugstore, and get a bottle of S. S. S. today, and get rid of those unsightly and disgusting pimples, and other skin irritations. And it will cleanse your blood thoroughly. If you wish special medical advice, you can obtain it without charge by writing to Medical Director, 29 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

"CAP STUBBS"

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN USEFULNESS OF CADDIES

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Improvement in the condition and usefulness of caddies has occupied the attention of various Chicago golf clubs for some time, and a report made to officers of the Chicago District Golf Association indicates that considerable success has attended the attempt.

An interesting experiment in self rule has been tried at the Westmoreland Country Club, a pioneer in caddy improvement, after much trouble had been encountered in getting the caddies to make the best showing it was decided to put in effect the suggestion of Norman C. Naylor, chairman of the golf committee. This plan was to leave to the caddies themselves the correction and education of the club members. After the scheme of government had been explained to the boys, they organized and selected officers and committees. Each new boy listed at the club as a caddy was instructed thoroughly by the caddy organization as to his duties.

It was impressed upon him that he was not merely a carrier of clubs, but that it was incumbent on him to be alert in watching the employer's ball, to be handy at all times with the bag, so that the desired club could be selected without delay, and to keep absolutely quiet during a stroke. Prizes were offered for the best showing in efficiency, and the educational side of the caddy democracy was a success.

Finally there arose a moral question. One member missed some unused golf balls after a round of the links. He reported to the caddy master, and the loss was placed before the caddy committee on honesty.

The boy who had caddied for the member losing the balls from his bag was placed on trial with considerable formality. A lad, whose father was an attorney, presided at the trial; and, after evidence had been given, the caddy pleaded guilty. The court held a conference and decided to expel the delinquent, who was thenceforth barred from the links, and pointed out to the other caddies as an example of what would happen to caddies attending to their duties.

It developed during this case that caddies frequently made free to take balls from the bags of visitors to golf clubs, feeling that the guest would not so readily miss the balls, or make complaint if he did discover the loss. Since the ostracizing of the pilfering caddy, there has been no report of stolen balls at Westmoreland.

HERE'S THE REAL WORLD SERIES STAR

GREAT LAKES TEAM WILL BATTLE NORFOLK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Great Lakes, Sept. 13.—A second Atlantic Coast—Great Lakes baseball series has been arranged. Several weeks ago Rabbit Maraville's sally athletes from an eastern base were twice defeated in a three game series at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. The return contests will be staged at Great Lakes Sept. 22, 24 and 25, by a team from Norfolk.

Included in the Norfolk lineup are Pete Kilduff, formerly of the Chicago Nationals; Krueger of the Brooklyn Nationals; Bill Jacobson and Ted Sloun of the St. Louis Americans and several others who drew pay from big league magnates.

On the station side are Clint John Lavin of the Washington Americans; Fred Thomas, who played third for the Boston Americans in the recent world's series; Ben Dyer of the Detroit Americans and Joe Leonard of Washington. Baber, formerly of the Chicago White Sox, will hurl two of the games for the inland sailors.

The Norfolk team has been invited to the station several days before the series to be guests at the national A. A. C. games beginning, Sept. 20.

The National League averages for 1918 fail to show any home-run kings. Rouben of Cincinnati and Outshaw of Pittsburgh were the leading circuit clouters and the best each one of them could do was to pole out five. Babe Ruth got eleven alone.

MORRIS MILLER

Benny Kauff is out of baseball for the duration of the war at least and possibly for all time.

Benny was called in the draft in the middle of the last baseball season. He left the game with a different reputation than he had when he broke into the major leagues. And I don't know of a fan who isn't glad that Benny did with favor with fandom before he departed for the field of war.

Kauff broke into the limelight while with the Federal league. He was, it is conceded, one of the big stars of the outlaw body. The men backing the league played him to the limit for publicity. Stories appeared all over the country quoting Benny as saying that he was going to "make Ay Cobb look like a bush league." He was pictured in the papers as a confident, bigoted, puffed-up ball player who strutted around with his chin stuck out like a pouter-pigeon looking for new worlds to conquer.

When he joined the Giants after the baseball war was settled he was taken at his newspaper ratings. He failed the world with his brilliancy although he played a fair game and the fans made him pay dearly for his alleged boastful remarks.

But Kauff began immediately to change the fans' impression of him—to correct the error of judgment by knocking down diligently to learning the game under McGraw. He had a batting fault. He was glad to have McGraw show him how to correct it. He was fast on the bases but reckless. These he learned in long hours of practice.

It leaked out, too, that many of the statements concerning Kauff's alleged poor opinion of Cobb were passed out by a lawyer press agent who had Kauff in tow. The lawyer talked Kauff into believing his services and the hot air were necessary to make Kauff and the Federal league a success.

This knowledge cleared the atmosphere considerably.

Kauff became popular with the players and their opinion of him spread, of course. Many of the scribes liked him.

In the closing weeks of the ball season Kauff obtained a furlough to play a few games with his old teammates. He was given a big hand around the circuit and the New York fans gave him a great reception.

If Kauff goes about his soldier duties with the confidence and ambience he showed with the Giants and without the handicap caused by the mistaken idea of his personality he ought to make good in Uncle Sam's league. Baseball fans are pulling for him.

Another champion athlete has answered the call. Arthur Spencer, national cycling champ last year, has been ordered by the Newark, N. J., draft board to report to Camp Dix. Spencer's achievements with the bike last year were little short of marvelous. He defeated even Frank Kramer, king of riders and veteran of years of racing. This year, however, Kramer regained the national title from Spencer.

It might be added that Kramer has offered his services for overseas duty with the Y. M. C. A.

The New York Yankees had the best fielding team in the American league this past season, but they couldn't catch anything better than fourth place.

SHIPBUILDING PROGRAM HAS BROKEN ALL RECORDS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, Sept. 13.—America's vast shipbuilding program has opened the eyes of the world to her tremendous possibilities, recently declared Peter O. Knight, Vice-President and general counsel of the American International Shipbuilding Corporation, which operates the big plant at Hog Island.

"It is the best possible evidence that we intend to stick," he said. "The Japanese visitors counted the 50 ways, one by one, and exclaimed: 'Why we have only ten more ways in our whole country than you have in this one yard.' And Lord Reading, of England, declared that it typified the limitlessness of America."

"Others ask how we can do such things, and they learn that at the beginning of the war the wealth of the United States was $250,000,000,000, compared with $35,000,000,000 as the wealth of Great Britain, $30,000,000,000 for Germany and $55,000,000,000 for France."

"We have half the total banking resources of the world. Since the war began we have bought back $4,000,000,000 of securities, loaned $7,000,000,000 to allies and extended credit to allies and business concerns to the amount of $7,000,000,000 more. We have carried on the enlarged business of the country and a war costing us $40,000,000 a day."

"And America's wealth has increased since August, 1914. It has one-fourth of the commerce of the globe and has accumulated a third of the gold supply of the world. So great is the nation's wealth that even this war cannot deplete it. Informed Germans or citizens of other nations cannot think Germany can win with America against her."

INTERNAL REVENUE COLLECTIONS GAIN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 13.—Internal revenue collections for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, totaled $3,694,703,334.05, an increase of $2,835,500,000 over the year before. This announcement was contained in the annual report of the commissioner of internal revenue made public here today.

Collections from incomes and excess profits taxes for 1918 were $2,839,033,535.53, as compared with

SHIPBUILDING PROGRAM HAS BROKEN ALL RECORDS

$259,635,146.50 from income taxes from corporations and individuals for 1917. The total revenue from income and excess profits taxes in 1918 was 7.9 times as great as the income tax of 1917.

While all states report increased collections, the gains in 1918 were much greater in some states than in others. The smallest increase was in Utah, where $1,330,000 was collected in 1917, and only $2,505,000 in 1918. West Virginia showed the largest gain, collections in 1918 being 23.7 times as much more than the 1917, the actual increase being from $1,921,000 to $45,549,000.

COSTS UNITED STATES A BILLION A MONTH

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 13.—Seventeen months of the war have cost the United States government $1,733,581,442—billion dollars a month. This rate has increased so rapidly, however, that August expenses ran up to $1,805,513,222, or nearly $200,000,000 more than the highest previous record set in July.

These figures from the treasury show that less than one and one-half years of modern warfare have cost the United States more than four times the combined Union and Confederate outlays for three years of the civil war, calculated at $3,860,000,000 for the Union and $1,500,000,000 for the Confederates.

The report also shows double the rate of increase in expenditures estimated by the government in June, then set at $100,000,000 more each month. If this rate continues, expenses for the year ending next June will be more than the $24,000,000,000 estimated, and the country may be called upon to absorb more than the $15,000,000,000 of liberty bonds now tentatively planned.

The treasury department also shows further that of the $17,339,000,000 cost of the war to date, $10,937,077,000 has been spent for ordinary war purposes and $6,245,744,000 has gone

Chemist Wins Lasting Gratitude

"I tried several doctors and all kinds of medicine, and had about given up all hope of getting better. I did not think it possible that any medicine could be so wonderful in its effect as Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has proven in my case. I have won my lasting gratitude. I could not work at all and had constant pain in my stomach before taking your medicine. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Detroit, Mich. "I got into a weak, run-down condition, no appetite, tired all the time and headed— but had to keep around and do my housework. I read about Vinol and tried it—within two weeks I commenced to improve, and now have a splendid appetite and feel stronger and better in every way."

Mrs. John F. Watson.

For all anemias, nervousness, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

Texas, Texas. "I kept house and I was weak, run-down and nervous, back ached a good deal of the time, so it was hard to take care of my chickens and do my work—Vinol has restored my strength, and my nervousness has gone, so I can do my work as well as ever. Every run-down woman should take Vinol."
